Green Cuisine

Fairmont Hotels & Resorts recently announced its brand wide commitment to use, wherever possible, local, organic and sustainable ingredients in all of its Food & Beverage operations. We are the first hotel company to make this pledge. All cuisine is prepared without artifical transfat.

We have made this commitment for several reasons. Trends indicate that guests consider health and wellness a key factor in their eating habits, and are becoming increasingly savvy about where their food is sourced from, both for health and ethical reasons. In addition, we have always fostered close partnerships with local purveyors, in part to get the best, freshest ingredients, but also to highlight the true flavour of our destinations, in our desire to be authentically local. Finally, this formal commitment aligns closely with our ongoing efforts to be leaders in the area of environmental stewardship

Our commitment to local, organic and sustainable cuisine is one more facet of our Green Partnership Program, which strives to lessen our impact on the planet through sustainable operations.

Fairmont aims to minimize our imprint on the planet, and using and promoting local, sustainable products and ingredients is a natural fit in our Food & Beverage operations. We encourage our hotels to serve food that is grown, raised or made in or around their destinations under the umbrella of "think globally, eat locally". Fairmont's portfolio of world-class chefs strives to use the finest local and in-season ingredients available. Also, many hotels feature on-site herb gardens that provide seasonings to the kitchens.

We have expanded our green offerings for meetings and events. Meeting groups are being encouraged to consider sustainability issues along with their commitment to healthy eating. Planners working with Fairmont can choose sustainable alternatives when organizing their next event – the company's Eco-Meet program provides green meeting options, featuring disposable-free service, eco-Adventure activities, themed meeting breaks and sustainable, gourmet menus.

It is our pleasure to offer you custom menus featuring local, organic and sustainable ingredients or healthy options from our Fairmont Lifestyle Cuisine program. Our Conference Services & Catering Managers would be pleased to offer you further information on these selections.
