It's got "some of the best food in Sonoma County" say supporters of this upscale destination whose "outstanding" Cal-French fare – infused with "quality ingredients" and "tasting as good as it looks" – is paired with an "extensive wine list" (about 600 vinos); while dissenters question the "hype" surrounding the place, "attentive but not hovering" service and sophisticated decor win over most, even if it all "comes at a price."
