Hanzell Winery

Named after his wife Hana, Hanzell sits at the southern toe of the Mayacamas mountain range overlooking the south-western end of Sonoma Valley and San Pablo Bay. After extensive time spent in Burgundy, Zellerbach returned inspired and educated by the region's wines and grapes—Pinot Noir and Chardonnay. He then planted these two varieties at a time when there were less than a few hundred acres of each planted in North America. Since 1975, Hanzell has been solely owned by the de Brie family, who is dedicated to the preservation of tradition with a progressive and holistic approach which will ensure the sustainability for generations to come. For reservations, please call 707-996-3860.

Tubing the Russian River

- We recommend is the 2-mile stretch from Steelhead Beach to Sunset Beach in Forestville.
- You don't want to finish a nice, long float and have to walk back to your car along the narrow shoulder of River Road, with traffic speeding past. Park one car at Sunset Beach then drive the other to Steelhead to start your trip. If you plan to call a rideshare, know that cell service on the river is spotty. (Verizon customers have the best service.) Having two cars will save you stress, money, and time. Parking is $7 per vehicle or free for Regional Parks members.
- It takes about five minutes to drive from Steelhead Beach to Sunset Beach but four and a half hours to float that distance. Plan to be at Steelhead by 10 a.m. and on the water by 11 a.m. at the latest. Plan to arrive even earlier if it's a weekend, holiday, or the temperature will be over 90 degrees. Parking lots fill quickly.
- In addition to your floats, you'll need ropes if your group wants to tie together. You'll need a car-powered air pump (there are no outlets at the beaches), coolers with food and drinks, sunscreen, hats, sunglasses, water shoes, life jackets, car keys, driver's licenses, cell phones, a garbage bag, and other necessities.
- Bring lots of water. Drink lots of water. Even a few hours in mid-day sun can lead to dehydration and heatstroke. Bring plenty of water, and drink often.
- Tubing on the Russian River can be a fun, memorable experience if you plan ahead. Stick to this advice, and you are well on your way to a great float experience in Sonoma County.
